What happens when I make a complaint?

At Hostplus we take complaints very seriously and also treat each complaint as an opportunity to improve our services. We will provide you with an acknowledgement that we have received your complaint as soon as possible. In most cases this will be within 24 hours. If we are unable to resolve your complaint immediately we will acknowledge your complaint within 5 business days of receiving it as well as provide you with specific details relevant to your complaint.

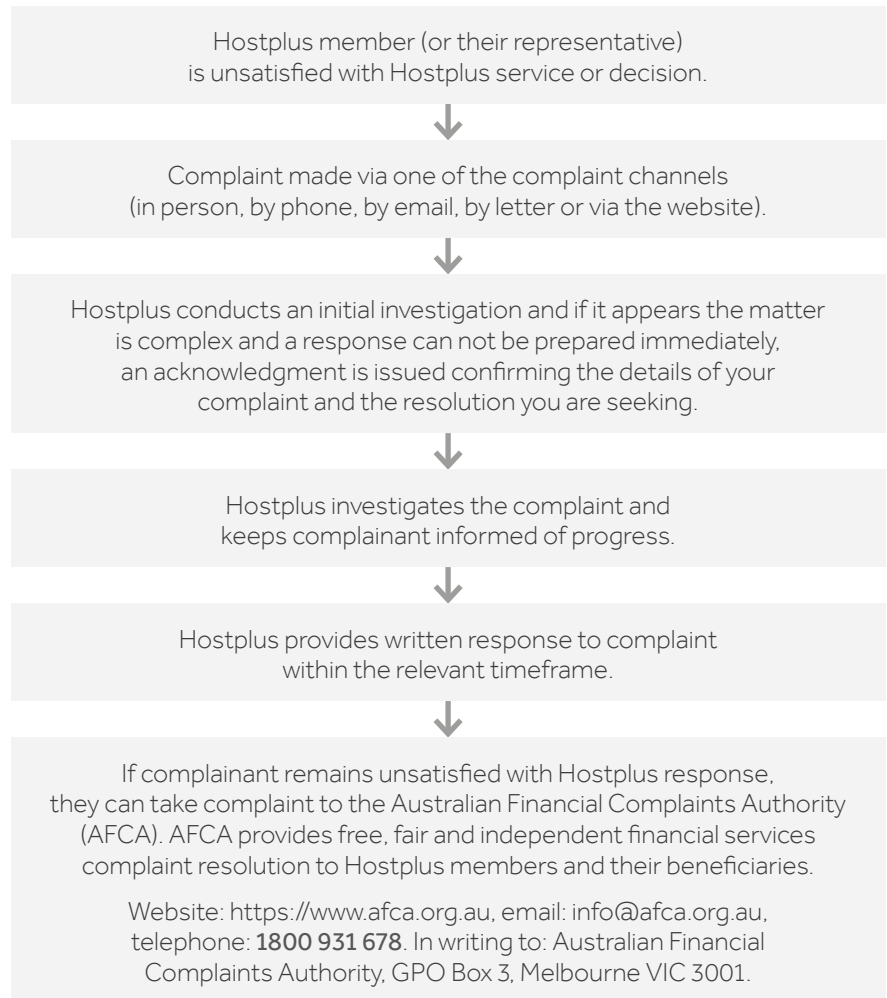

While there are requirements, including time frames in which we need to respond to you under the law¹, we will strive to respond to your complaint as quickly as possible and well before these timeframes expire. Where we are unable to do so (for example, where your complaint is very complex) we will make sure we keep you informed about our progress on a regular basis.

We will investigate each complaint using every reasonable effort available to us. This may involve obtaining all relevant documentation connected to your complaint, speaking with relevant staff members who can provide details about the circumstances giving rise to your complaint, reviewing relevant disclosure documentation as well as any relevant legislation. After we have completed this process, we will write to you setting out details of our investigation and the outcome we have reached about your complaint. If you remain unsatisfied with our response to your complaint, you may take your complaint further by contacting the Australian Financial Complaints Authority (AFCA).

Although you are able to refer the matter to AFCA at any time, they will not usually deal with your complaint until it has been through Hostplus' complaints handling process.

During the resolution process we will ensure that your privacy is protected and details about your complaint will only be shared with those that need to receive this information.
